

Senior Technical Producer

We are

AXIOM Solid Solutions was founded early 2020 because of merging 4AV Technical Productions and 4Productions. By bundling our knowledge and activities, we increased our capacity to be the creative and driving force behind many large-scale projects.

AXIOM is a vibrant, all-round production company. From providing small scale support and developing creative concepts to fully producing an event from A to Z – AXIOM does it all! We are a flexible organization, that has a creative and inventive way of working.

You are

As a Senior Technical Producer you are responsible for independent technical preparation and coordinating productions for our clients. In the preliminary phase you are responsible for drawing up and managing budgets, requesting, and checking quotations, technical drawing of structures, stages, and technical facilities, preparing plans and scripts.

You perform part of the work on location, where you will be responsible for creating a smooth operational realization of all plans. You maintain overall technical coordination for all involved disciplines and are the link between the suppliers, the location, and the client.

You have a creative, technical insight, you feel at home in the event world and – since you are working on several projects simultaneously – you know how to perform under pressure. You are a team player and together with your colleagues, you'll make the impossible become possible.
